United Nations ST/IC/2000/63

Secretariat

7 September 2000

Information circular*

To: Members of the staff

From: The Assistant Secretary-General for Human Resources Management

Subject: United Nations sabbatical leave programme for the year 2001*

1. The purpose of the present information circular is to invite staff to apply for the sabbatical leave programme in 2001, in accordance with the provisions of ST/AI/2000/4 of 5 April 2000.

Selection of institution

2. Interested staff members are responsible for identifying the institution or organization in which they propose to carry out their studies and for securing their acceptance by that institution or organization. In addition to universities and independent institutions worldwide, including participating research and training centres of the United Nations University (UNU) and institutions that are members of the Academic Council on the United Nations System, study projects may also be pursued in other relevant organizations and institutions. Staff members may wish to consult the list of institutions that are members of the Academic Council on the United Nations System contained in annex II to the present circular and the list of participating research and training centres of UNU contained in annex III.

Application procedures

3. Applicants are requested to complete the application form contained in annex I to the present circular and to submit it, through their respective head of office or department, together with a proposal describing the study that they wish to pursue to the Officer-in-Charge, Sabbatical Leave Programme, Room S-2500, Specialist Services Division, Office of Human Resources Management, New York, NY 10017, by 30 November 2000. Letters of recommendation should be sent to the same address.

4. The proposal, which should not exceed four pages, should contain the following information:

Annex III

United Nations University participating centres

Under its Charter, adopted by the General Assembly in 1973, the United Nations University (UNU) is a voluntarily funded autonomous organ of the General Assembly that engages in research, postgraduate training and the dissemination of knowledge on pressing global problems of human survival, development and welfare that are the concern of the United Nations and its agencies. UNU is organized on a networking principle. The University headquarters in Tokyo, through its Academic Division, coordinates a number of programmes and project networks. UNU research and training centres conduct in-house research and training and coordinate research and training involving institutions in many countries.

The location of specific UNU research and training activities and the respective fields of study where staff members on sabbatical leave might consider pursuing study projects at UNU include:

1. UNU headquarters, Academic Division, in Tokyo

   Peace and governance

   Sustainable development

2. UNU Institute of Advanced Studies (UNU/IAS) in Tokyo

   Eco-restructuring for sustainable development

   Mega-cities and urban development

   Multilateralism and governance

3. UNU World Institute for Development Economics Research (UNU/WIDER) in Helsinki

   Economics of transition

   Liberalization and development in sub-Saharan Africa

   Institutional and distributive issues

   International finance and economic issues

   Global governance

4. UNU Institute for New Technologies (UNU/INTECH) in Maastricht, the Netherlands

   Socio-economic implications of new technologies
